Theirs an unflinching vigor to the death,
Theirs a service, unstinted, to the death,
Theirs the selfless consecration to the death,
To them, the Lawrence soldiers, who gave their lives for the triumph of right, we reverently dedicate this Ariel.

"LET everything that we say, my fellow countrymen, everything that we henceforth plan and accomplish, ring true till the majesty and might of our concerted power shall fill the thought and utterly defeat the force of those who flout and misprize what we honor and hold true. There is, therefore, but one response possible from us: Force, Force to the utmost, Force without stint or limit, the righteous and triumphant Force which shall make Right the law of the world, and cast every selfish dominion down in the dust"

Foreword

THIS year began with the call of the bugle, clear and strong its silvery tones floated over the campus, and in the glimmering dawn four hundred uniformed men formed in line to do ample justice to a six o'clock breakfast. It was a new spectacle on Lawrence campus, as were the guards who day and night, with rifles on their shoulders, trod constantly the paths round Ormsby and Brokaw halls, as if the Germans might any hour appear for fight. K. P. duty was also an innovation and hard on floors and dishes; but the transformation into a canteen of Ormsby parlors, where for so many years charming girls had smiled into the eyes of gentlemen admirers, was the consummation of change and degeneracy. The S. A. T. C. came and the S. A. T. C. went and only the memory, some broken cots and some disfigurements of buildings remain as a witness. We were glad to welcome them when they came and we were glad to bid them good-bye when they went, not that we did not find them an agreeable company, but because we were happy to get back into our accustomed ways and our old-time traditions.

Lawrence athletics have maintained their accustomed form. In the fall our S. A. T. C. football squad laid low all opposers and did a piece of work that reminded us of the palmy days of Abrahamson and the Tippet. In the winter our basketball team won a clean slate championship and put the Lawrence banner on the top of the Wisconsin college pole.

The glee clubs, always good, have won the applause of the crowds that have come out in size in many cities to listen to them, while press notices have been unusually eulogistic. Our Lawrence song birds have always been a melodious lot and this year is no exception. Our debates are yet to be, but of course we will win, for under the skillful coaching of Professor Orr we always do.

The best single thing that has come to us is the endowment of a chair of American history by a good friend of the college. This gives us three strong men in the department of history and makes it one of the best equipped in the institution.

While we have had our gains, we have also had our losses. The first of January that quiet scholar whose love of learning and beautiful Christian spirit have for twenty-one years enriched the lives of successive generations of Lawrence students, passed beyond the sunset, and we shall see his kindly face no more. He was as pure and true a soul as ever taught in a Lawrence class room. His place will be filled next year by Dr. Arthur Harold Weston, for the past four years a teacher at Yale University and a scholar of the highest scholastic training. Another teacher added to the faculty for next year is Prof. W. E. Rogers of Westminster College, Pa., who will have the department of botany.

Next year is to be our banner year. Many of our soldier boys will be back and Drs. Custer, Naylor, and Spencer, Mr. Holmes and Mrs. Housel will all be in their places, so that we shall be the best-manned and best-equipped Lawrence has ever been. With our new teachers, our new chapel, and enlarged equipment, we may all look forward to the next school year with unusual anticipation.

SAMUEL PLANTZ.

In Memoriam

ELLSWORTH DAVID WRIGHT, Ph.D. Scholar
Born 1862—Died January, 1919.

"Integer Vital Scelerisque purus."

Professor Wright's twenty-one years of service as Professor of Latin Languages was marked to an exceptional degree by thorough scholarship, rare patience and skill in teaching, refined modesty, steadfast loyalty to his students and colleagues, spiritual vision, and a heroic devotion to his task, undaunted by constant physical suffering. He did his work with a fine dignity and almost Roman sternness, yet with a smile on his face that spoke only of joy of attainment and service. His quiet influence will ever abide as a permanent part of our college atmosphere, an invisible power to lift us to our best.

FORENSICS

COACH ORR

Review of the Debate Season

OUR war and the S. A. T. C. threatened to eliminate work in forensics completely this year. This proved to be the case, however, with the majority of the colleges, and before December 21, 1918, we had little prospects of carrying out a forensic program this year. We did do some negotiating before the disbanding of the S. A. T. C., so that soon after the Christmas holidays we were able to schedule a dual debate with Cornell College of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and we entered a triangular debate with Ripon and Northwestern College of Naperville, Illinois.

The question debated this year was, "Resolved, That the Federal Government should own and operate the railroads of the United States. Constitutionality conceded." In the middle of January eighteen men tried for places on the teams. The following men were selected: Chester Shoemaker, Elmer Hilker, William Doll, Ralph Nichols, and Carroll Heft, with Alfred Root and Chalmers McGreaham as alternates.

On the afternoon of April 12, 1919, our negative team, composed of Ralph Nichols and Elmer Hilker debated at Ripon, winning the unanimous decision of the judges. Owing to the illness of one of the Ripon debaters only two men supported each side. Double work thus devolved upon our men, and their victory was hard earned and well deserved.

In the evening of the same day the Lawrence affirmative team, composed of Carroll Heft, Chester Shoemaker, and William Doll, won a two to one decision from Northwestern College in the Chapel at Main Hall. The debate was one of the best presented and keenly fought contests that has been held here for several years. Our men, however, clearly demonstrated their superiority in clear thinking and effective presentation.

Owing to the illness of Elmer Hilker, the leader of the negative team, we were compelled to cancel the debate with Cornell scheduled to be held here April 18. The affirmative team, however, made the trip to Mt. Vernon, and won a unanimous decision in another excellent debate. This makes a clean record of three debates won, with no defeats this year. While it is not possible to claim a championship because but few schools debated, Lawrence's record stands out pre-eminently as one entitled to such recognition.

The fact that three of this year's debaters, two of whom were Freshmen, were without experience in collegiate debating, shows how handicapped our teams were. Realizing the situation, the men worked unstintingly, giving practically all of their time to maintain the reputation of Lawrence. Their preparation was thorough, and their knowledge of the subject complete. Their willingness to work and to serve together with the training of Professor Orr brought Lawrence the victories.

The record of twenty-eight victories out of thirty-six debates since Professor Orr has been at Lawrence speaks for itself. He demands thoroughness, originality, and application from his men. While we give due credit to the men who worked for him, we would not forget the man for whom they worked. To his training is due a large share of praise for having made Lawrence one of the strongest debating colleges in the Middle West.

HONORARY SOCIETIES

Tau Kappa Alpha

National Honorary Forensic Fraternity

Installed 1912

The purpose of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic fraternity, is two-fold. Its primary purpose is the recognition of true excellence in forensic attainments, but it also aims to stimulate greater interest in public speaking among undergraduates of American colleges. Only those who have represented their college in an intercollegiate debate or oratorical contest are eligible to membership, but they must be Juniors or Seniors who have proved their undoubted right to wear the key. To be elected to Tau Kappa Alpha is the highest honor attainable in the intercollegiate forensic world.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP

Men shall be elected to membership in the Mace for excellence in scholarship, in literary activities, in forensics, in athletics, and for recognized student leadership. This shall not be interpreted to mean, however, that a person shall be elected for excellence in any one of the above lines of activity.

No person shall be elected who has not obtained a B grade in sixty per cent of his studies.

No person shall be elected who has not completed two and one-half years of college work.

A person who at any time shall have been convicted of cheating, or any dishonorable conduct, shall not be eligible for membership.

Review of the Football Season, 1918

IN more ways than one, the football season of 1918 will be remembered in the annals of Lawrence College for many years to come. After Lawrence lost the state championship for two consecutive years, the S. A. T. C. team again brought the intercollegiate championship of Wisconsin.

After the military team had defeated Oshkosh Normal and Seventh Regiment from Great Lakes, they forfeited to Marquette at the beginning of the fourth quarter because of an unjust decision of the referee. The score was in favor of Lawrence, 12 to 7. Carroll forfeited to the Blue and White because the Carroll team considered Lawrence too strong. Lawrence then swamped the sailors from Camp Perry with a 37 to 0 score. Stevens Point was next to fall and then the ancient rival, Ripon, who met her doom on a field of slush and mud. Beloit's claim to the championship took flight when she insisted on playing a game to which Lawrence challenged her on the Beloit field. Lawrence's request to have the game played on a neutral ground was considered just, and Beloit lost her chance by refusing to comply.

It was through the efforts of Coach Catlin and Lieutenants Black and Vann that the successful season was possible. The fellows who had known the coach before were glad to have him again, while the new men realized what a chance they were having.

With an enviable record, Lawrence has always been feared by other teams, and this year's victories will give splendid incentive to coming teams to work to keep up the record. A good working motto for them is: "Remember the Service Team of 1918." V. W.

PETE WALSH, Captain

State Champions

WILLIAM WATERPOOL

"Bill." Was captain of the Lawrence champions. Although he was handicapped at the beginning of the season with a broken toe, he made a strong finish. He played a snappy and aggressive game at guard.

KEVILL LARSON

"Keeve." Had a wonderful eye for making baskets and was the highest point-getter of the squad. His ability as a forward was unexcelled in the state. He was named as a forward on the All State team.

RUSSELL IRISH

"Russ." Had the fight when it was needed. He put up a fine brand of basketball and since it was his first year in intercollegiate athletics, there is a bright outlook for him. He doesn't believe in interference from the sidelines, especially in Ripon games.

LAWRENCE CAMPBELL

"Cam." Started the season as a guard and developed into a forward. He possessed plenty of endurance and fight when they were needed. He was given the position of guard on the All State team.

MERTON LEAN

"Mert." A consistent and neat player in the guard position and deserving of a great deal of credit for his defensive work. Although he played a hard and fast game, he went through the season without having a foul called on him.

DONALD DYER

"Don." The man with the wax mustache. He couldn't shave it off before the end of the season, for we should surely have lost. Don was a fast forward and exceptionally strong on defensive work.

RALPH PUCHNER

"Puch." The man with the foxy dribble and left-handed toss for the basket. He showed his ability to get through a strong defense and deserves much credit for his work done with the team.

HAROLD ZIMMERMAN

"Zim." Although he didn't get into many of the games, he showed that he was a fast and clean player. He never missed practice and was as consistent in his playing.

Review of the Basketball Season

AT the beginning of the season prospects for a winning team were not very bright. The fact that there was no coach and that the S. A. T. C. was being disbanded caused a late start. Finally, Art Vincent was secured to work with the fellows, and the beginning of the second quarter found four "L" men in school. A practice game with St. Norbert's showed good material in the Lawrence men, but the fellows learned in their next game against St. John's, at Delafield, that they needed something more than ability to score. A poor defense on the part of Lawrence gave St. John's the long end of the score. Championship hopes took another drop when "Pete" Walsh was declared ineligible.

The team's last trouncing came at Beloit, but in this game the team work showed that the fellows could work together. Carroll was the first of the conference teams to fall before Lawrence. Then in the next game, championship hopes loomed sky high when Ripon was defeated on their own floor. St. John's, playing at Appleton, were next to go down before Vincent's aggregation. Then came Carroll, on their own floor, and they were more easily defeated there than in the previous game at Appleton. Beloit, with a string of eleven straight victories and the championship of Illinois, came up to Appleton only to go back defeated. Then came the final game with Ripon, which was to decide whether Lawrence should be tied with Beloit and Ripon or whether Lawrence should have the clear title of the state.

Ripon had already defeated Carleton, champions of Minnesota, on Carleton's floor, and the victory over Ripon gave Lawrence the championship of Wisconsin and made her the strongest claimant for the championship of the states of Illinois and Minnesota also.

The success of the season was due to the splendid fellowship and good feeling between the members of the team and Coach Vincent, to the pep and support of the student body, and largely to the efforts of "Chet" Roberts, who helped in coaching and who was always on hand to put fighting spirit in the players before going into the game.

With all this year's squad back again next year and with a few high school stars added, it looks like another championship for Lawrence.

W. W.

FARRAND, Cheer Leader

My S. A. T. C. Tragedy

The following commentary of a soldier's fighting days was written by one Everett Pecor, late of the Lawrence S. A. T. C. When the announcement was made that every soldier would get $60, he offered up his life to a sudden attack of incredulitis. This diary was taken from his effects after his departure for lands better unknown.

ENLISTS IN ARMY.

October 1, 1918.—The opportunity of a lifetime was presented to the United States today when I enlisted in the army, I mean the S. A. T. C. at Lawrence college. I signed up by voluntary introduction. We did not get our beds so I had to sleep on the floor, which was blamed hard, but I never complain. In the morning all of the soldiers were called on the field and we were entertained by several speakers, who impressed us with the seriousness of our new life, and said how essential we were to win the war. I thought that they were going to call on me, too, but slipped the lieutenant the word that I was modest and blushed before a crowd, so he agreed after much persuasion to excuse me. Several of the men fainted from standing up so long, but it never fazed me in the least. There was a tree behind me so I could rest against it.

DEGERSTED'S ORDERS.

October 3, 1918.—We had our first drill today. Top Sergeant John Richard Degerstedt called us on the field and gave us our orders for the day. He must be pretty high up in the army. He detailed me to do K. P. all day. I didn't exactly agree to do it, but thought he might court-martial me as he said he would do. After duty today, I went around and introduced myself to the fellows and made them see I was their friend and would help them get in with the lieutenants because I was bound to get pretty high up soon. Most of these fellows get homesick and need a friend. Incidentally, I asked them if they knew any girls around the "camp" and if they could arrange a little party. I like to get in the social swing to keep up the morale of the men.

October 5, 1918.—This morning we had our first inspection. The lieutenant bawled me out for not having my left shoelace matched with the lampshade. Gee! he was mad! But I know he just did that for effect because he didn't want my roommates to think he was favoring me. He likes me, though, because yesterday he came into the mess hall while I was trying to scrub out some of the knots in the floor and said, "Gee! you are good—and handy; why, we haven't another fellow in the place who does his work the way you do."

October 7, 1918.—Classes began today. I have a very interesting course. My professors are all very sweet and seem to like me because they are always watching to see what I am doing.

S. A. T. C. STEPS INTO SOCIETY.

October 18, 1918.—Went to the "walk-around" today. It was quite an affair. I like the game. The girls were all grouped around trees. I saw one that got my eye and started over toward her, but she ran among the other girls and hid all around the tree, but I walked around after her. It was quite a game. I must have been popular, because as soon as the girls saw me coming they started to run around the tree. Quite a game!

October 19, 1918.—We took a long hike today. In the afternoon we had to go over to the gym and get our "shots." Some of the fellows fainted but it never fazed me. When I got home I went to bed. When I wrote my girl that I had gotten my shot she wrote back and called me "hero." Guess I am pretty brave at that.

October 26, 1918. Lieutenant Black called on the men who were over twenty years old today on the drill field and put us in charge of a squad. He said he wanted to get some officer's material. I showed up fine with my squad. The only trouble was that they didn't keep in step—I was the only one in step. Then once in awhile they didn't turn the way I did, but the lieutenants knew it was their fault. "It pays to know your I. D. R." is what he said, so I know I was right.

ADVANCE AND BE RECOGNIZED.

November 4, 1918.—I was on guard duty today. I had to look after the whole "camp." The officer was pleased with my work because every time he approached he stopped to suggest a better way of carrying my gun, always looking for my welfare. Once at twelve o'clock a lady refused to stop at my challenge. When I reached her she wouldn't believe I was a soldier. When I presented my "gun" she laughed out loud. Finally I had to call out the corporal of the guard and he backed me up. Guess she felt pretty cheap.

November 5, 1918.—We got our overcoats today. They aren't very stylish. Some of them aren't built for the fellows who wear them. The "lieutenant" took a personal interest in my fit. When I came into the gym, he yelled to the fellow who dishes out the coats, "Give this fellow that coat we laid aside for an easy mark. I guess he will be satisfied with anything." The coat didn't look much like the others for it seemed that the color had faded, but the lieutenant explained that it was a special make. Gee! he is friendly!

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW.

November 8, 1918.—We got our pay today. I got $1.39. But then I enlisted to serve, not to make money. I am willing to sacrifice filthy lucre for my country's welfare.

November 19, 1918.—Our army shoes came today. I got a size twelve which seemed a bit large for me. But the "lieutenant" explained that feet like mine need plenty of room. I must have a pretty good "stand in" with him. He told me the best way to test a shoe is to jump on it and so he jumped on my feet. It hurt quite a bit, but he wanted to convince me that he meant for my welfare. He convinced me.

November 21, 1918.—We got our uniforms today. My roommate's suit was kind of large, but I was luckier. The lieutenant picked out a special one for me. I had to wear the blouse unbuttoned because it was sort of tight, but he said that uniforms are tight-fitting and that I looked "natty" in it.

S. A. T. C. SEE MA AND PA AGAIN.

November 29, 1918.—Just came back from my Thanksgiving vacation. We only had forty hours, but the lieutenant said that even though the armistice was signed we were needed to prevent any further outbreaks of the Hellish Hun.

December 11, 1918.—We all took our physical exams today. Rumor has it that we are to be demobilized. I passed perfect. The doctor said, "There isn't another specimen like that in all the armies of the world." Too bad I wasn't discovered before the war ended.

December 20, 1918.—We were supposed to be discharged today. But the papers didn't come. Gee! I almost told the lieutenant what I thought of the army, but restrained myself because he is a personal friend of mine. So I had to sleep on the floor all night. Gee! it was fierce, but I never complain.

December 21, 1918.—Hurray! I was discharged today. The lieutenant had to turn his face away when I said goodbye to him; he felt the parting that much. It was the end of a great career. But Sherman didn't know what war was when he said that phrase. He should have been with me. Gee! it was fierce, but I never complain!

Requirements for Entrance into S. A. T. C.

1. Men must be able to frame a campus date with an upperclassman, using only the eye as a medium of conversation.
2. When off duty at 5 p. m., they must swallow successfully six slippery strawberry sundaes at Schlitz's by six o'clock.
3. They must imbibe so much Lawrence spirit their first month here that they will readily separate themselves from their first month's pay for board before induction at the college office.
4. They must prove conclusively that they possess ability along domestic lines.
5. They must respond readily with a good line of small talk to operator when she habitually says "2200's busy."
6. They must prove capable of accommodating themselves and friends either on the Observatory steps or Main Hall back porch.
7. When in the library, they should remember to use seashore experience in coping with the Beach.
8. They are advised to remember at least 49 of the 152 verses of negro melodies sung in chapel.
9. It is necessary that they concentrate on the little bird in chapel instead of on the angels above (gallery).
10. All rights to Phi Beta Kappa keys must be relinquished, but copyrights may be maintained.

The Bells

Hear the dorms with all their bells—

Iron bells!

The end of merriment their melody, their melody foretells!

How they tinkle, tinkle, tinkle

In the corridor each night—

While the proctors that are sprinkled

Down the hallway, seem to twinkle

With a fiendish delight.

"Keep your lights all out on time!"

Is the everlasting rhyme,

Of the bells.

Hear the loud alarm bells—

Brazen bells!

What a tale of troubles now their turbulency tells!

In the startled ear of night

How they make you jump with fright;

Much too sleepy to awaken,

Others have your breakfast taken—

Now they make you sit up higher

With a desperate desire,

To get up, now or never—

Oh, those awful rising bells,

Of despair.

Hear the mellow dinner bells,

Golden bell!

What a world of happiness its harmony foretells,

Through the hall from left to right,

How it rings out with delight,

Oh, the rhyming and the chiming of that bell!

Those Classes are More Darn Fun!

Freshman (noticing Phi Beta Kappa key hanging from Justin's watch chain): "Did you find it again? Or is this another?"

Justin: "I never lost it."

Freshman: "The girl next door said you had lost the charm you had when you were a boy."

Professor Crafer incidentally told his sociology class one day that he "did not like these here little books with the yellow backs." Also (the day after Rachel Lindsay appeared in chapel): "Oh—they're in a class by themselves—poets!" And he actually told Doris: "Aw—come on, Miss Brenner."

The Shakespeare Class was reading one of the plays in dialogue. Professor Wann was about to make an explanation and said: "Pardon me, but ——" Geck didn't seem to hear, for she continued calmly: "Let me alone, sweetheart."

Professor Wann in Romantic Movement Class: "Yes, Miss Newton—but you must admit that things don't look as rosy to you now as ——" Then he wondered why the class laughed.

Betty Krebs (thinking of Phi Beta Kappa): "Oh, kids—I'm a regular Beta—I got 66 in rhetoric!"

Dot Pierce (at a faculty party): "Oh, kids—look what I've got!" Yes, Lindsay and Millers were there.

Mr. Lindsay had been assigning references; the list ended with the Book of Proverbs. Glenn Oldenburg: "Could I get that book at the library?"

Professor Rasey: "Miss Dunn, do you believe that to be good is to be happy?"
Dot Dunn: "No, not here."

Frank Williams was asked to define style. He answered as follows: "Well, I don't know—but I guess it's some form of insanity."

Marg Luce: "Did I leave my Roman History here?"

Professor Trever: "Not much of it!"

Doctor (heard on the campus): "It's 'Wives and Other Wives,' isn't it?"

In reply: "No, it's 'For Husbands Only.'"

Lindsay to Miller: "Take a chair. Take several of them; you'll need them now."

Miller: "One is enough, thank you."

Jack Murphy: "I can't run, I have a weak heart."

Gerry P.: "So I've noticed."

(Heard in the gym) Campbell: "I am always changing my clothes. Why, I change my socks twice a week."

Ready answer: "Yes, from one foot to the other."

A Chair of History has recently been endowed here at college; we wonder if MacHarg will sit down now.

Bell, discussing French exam grades: "Now, Mr. Monsted came almost up to the average."

At Russell Sage—long pause—"Everybody."

Geck: "Hello, Mrs. Wittmeyer? I heard you excused your gym class early today to speak to me."

Mrs. W.: "You can't play basketball tomorrow—the gir-r-ls have not all had their hearts tested."

Geck: "Well, that's interesting. Weren't they examined last fall before they were allowed to take gym?"

Mrs. W.: "We won't argue! They nevah do it in the east. They can't play."

Geck: "But —"

Mrs. W.: "Well, Olga—I think we undahstand each othah now—goodbye."

Geck: "Oh—Min!"

Right Reverend Degerstedt: "Hello—is this Sage? May I speak to Miss Henry?"

Maid: "Just a minute—which one?"

Degerstedt: "Miss Aileen."

Maid (unable to find Aileen, returns to the phone): "Hello."

Degerstedt: "Is this you, dear?"

Maid: " ? ? ? ? ? Words failed her!"

W. B. A.: (Pause) "Well, that's all right, too. How about Margaret Bjoin or Hazel Schuette, Abigail Classon or Margaret Luce or—"

Dot: "Wait, wait—not so fast! I'll get the card catalogue from Miss Gaeckler."

W. B. A.: "Well—never mind—guess I'll go down to the pool shack. Thanks just the same—"

Doc Sammy: "Miss Gaeckler? Let us continue our business talk of yesterday. But first, I want you to rush about six more girls over here to help us out. Kennedy's song is going fast."

Dr. Maude: "I'm sorry, Dr.—but the girls are all busy taking the screens off the windows."

Most any student: "Say, is this Adlers?"

Answer: "Yes—"

Student: "Am I speaking to Professor Adler?"

Answer: "No!"

Student: "Well, is Mr. Adler there?"

Answer: "No!"

Student: "Just who am I speaking to? I would like to leave a message for him."

Answer: "I will take the message now—this is Dr. Adler."

Two Weeks for a Vamp

With only an hour off each day and dates on the off night, S. A. T. C. men had little opportunity to see their favorite movie stars. Theda was in town one night and proved the downfall of about fourteen young men. Between supper and call to quarters, they disappeared.

With his knowledge of young men to aid him, Loot Vann suspected something and posted inner guards. The young men came creeping in, one by one. They all seemed to get by the guards in best approved manner, but—they had their numbers when they got inside.

They got something like two weeks on the campus, but the saddest part of all was that three of the men missed the show but not the punishment.

When the Gods Smiled

Twenty-five heroes there were, all arrayed in their best. Nothing to mar their happiness, were they not the chosen few upon whom the gods smiled? The other members of Company B, their envy bursting through even their soldierly self-repression, are present to a man. Next time—just wait!

Ah! the rewards of quick action learned under the tyranny of the loots is not without its rewards. To dance, to dance with a real partner, as provided from Russell Sage's abundance, by thoughtful directors of this dance! And in these halls of Brokaw, never blessed by dainty tripping feet in Castle glides. 'Tis a dream; must be! Pinch me. Ow! it's true, all right.

Inspection? Yes, yes—anything. Are not those noble names already irrevocably down in black and white upon that fatal slip. Will staunch hearts, untroubled even by the eagle-eyed inspections of Loot Williston, falter at this last impediment which keeps them from their heart's delight. Moreover, are they not prepared? Never were these men more carefully appraised since the institution of the bugler. Valets could not have done better. They had arrayed themselves for feminine eyes, more critical than ever officers' can be. What more?

Ah—h—h! that's over. Kind of a rough inspection, but mighty thorough. They certainly are careful how these young men appear in society. But it is only thus that Miss Gaeckler's charges can again be induced from the shelter of her arms should the gods see fit to keep on smiling.

The girls must be coming now. If only each man could have picked his own partner. But then 'she' stays at Smith house, what good would that be? 'Tis folly to complain. Let not one word, not one thot mar the beauty of this hour.

Uh—w—what? Can't dance?—

And the gods smile on. Their humor spreads to those soldiers who were not formerly favored with the radiance of their majesties' smiles.

Climax! the twenty-five heroes of the past hour hear the thundering roar of the united humor. The iron enters their souls.

War in its Awful Reality

My scene is the campus in the days of the S. A. T. C. The time was night, dark and gloomy. A few stars shone in the sky to light the way of the guards, as they paced up and down, each on his own beat. Three lovely heroines, whose mothers had taught them that one must always count ten before one spoke, were wending their way through the campus. With fear and trembling, they saw the guard and noted the evil looking gun resting firmly on his shoulder. Alas! what knew they, these innocent damsels, of the cruel methods of warfare.

They approached.

"Halt!" commanded a sepulchral voice.

The timid maids stopped. Fear clutched their hearts, their knees beat time rapidly; their teeth chattered.

"Who goes there?" was the question.

Before the obedient maids could count ten, the guard shouted:

"Corporal of the guard, No. 1!"

Panic seized them. Oh! Min! what should they do?

The cruel corporal approached. He questioned them, but they could not answer. Alas! they had forgotten how to count.

"You are under arrest. Forward march!" was the order.

Guards in front of them, guards at the right of them, guards at the left of them, guards behind them, in single file the now wholly terrified damsels were marched to the guard house. Once inside, they were petrified to see Loot Mason. No words could they utter, except their names.

"Suspicious characters. Failure to answer questions," was placed on the record books of the United States army.

The order was given to march to headquarters. Escorted as before, they were marched across the campus. Lovingly they looked at the familiar spots, perhaps for the last time. As they approached the guard,

"Halt! who goes there?" was the challenge.

"Officer of the day with prisoners," was the reply.

"Advance and be recognized," ordered the guard. One of the prisoners advanced.

"Halt! prisoner!" shouted the corporal and placed an armed guard over the offending maid.

At headquarters the severe and stern lieutenants solemnly reprimanded them for their conduct.

"W—w—will we be shot at sunrise?" ventured one of the fair ones.

At that moment a loud sound was heard, a door flew open, and Loot Workman burst into the room, armed with a cruel revolver. The co-eds gasped, they trembled, they turned pale. Ah! woe! what could they do against such odds?

But "every cloud has a silver lining." The ever gallant loots, recognizing the timidity and innocence of the co-eds, dismissed the guards, cleared them of the charge, and escorted them to the Cage with all military formality.

THE WHY THEREOF

When any great work is first launched, a word of explanation is always needed to enlighten the minds of the unsophisticated.

Doc Sammy's selected boarding school for higher learning was originally founded on the principles of harmony through matrimony. Due to the S. A. T. C. war and influenza, the immediate results of the Walk-Around and All-College day (which wasn't) have not been evident. Hence the experienced board (above mentioned) recently decided that much more efficient work could be done by having an official organ. They have undertaken the publication of a daily to be known and published under the name of The Lawrence Companion Finder.

In order to prevent repetition of the great sorrow and consequent departure from school of Herb Heilig, because of his failure to find a mate, we hope to reach others in this same dilemma through the columns of this paper.

We realize that all matrimonial affairs are instinctively private matter and so hold all correspondence in strictest secrecy. At great sacrifice, we have reduced the price of special lists to a minimum of a few cents. Those requesting such lists will receive our prompt attention and guarantee of perfect results.

The happy homes of Sorensens and Barnes are the result of similar agencies under the guidance of some of our board. They have proved to us that nothing is more blessed than a happy home. Our aim is to found such homes. If the spirit moves you, come to us for a dutiful wife or an attentive husband. Just state your need. We succeed where others fail.

RECOMMENDATIONS

We fellows were sure lucky to look you up before we took our chance on any girls and we agree with you that harmony thru the double means is most efficient. Marg and Eva filled the bill and we landed both of them. We are glad you are putting Pat and Clayton on the right track with the automobile stunt, and tell them for us that double announcements work the cheapest.

Yours till we fuss only once a week,

SKINNAY AND GEORGE.

I always told my ma that I would never get mixed up with any women. She sort of banked on my views changing when I came to Lawrence, but after the first year I hadn't weakened and so she appealed to you. It is too bad you had to try so many schemes before I fell but I guess it's all for the Bes—(t). I'll be glad to help any others. I'll be at the Phi Kap house at meal time and at Russell Sage other times. The fact that I have captured the college beauty ought to be an incentive to others to try your agency.

Your hearty endorser,

BOB.

Joke and you grin alone—Jack Vincent.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE COMPANION FINDER

I was so particular that I was afraid you could not find a suitable man for me. You remember I insisted on him being a Theta Phi. I had tried a few but something was wrong with each. Then you turned Jack my way and all my requests have been answered. He is faithful and constant, enjoys strolling at all hours and visiting between classes. And he even won two votes in the handsome man contest; by the way, where did he get that other vote?

Gratefully,
ABIGAIL.

TAKE NOTICE YE WOULD-BE WOOERS

Complete address of any girl in this column will be given for 35 cents or three for 50 cents. New list each day.

An educated girl of 19, 5 feet, 2 inches short, with smooth, glossy light hair. I have never wandered far from the straight and narrow and desire a companion of the same type. I would enjoy studying with a quiet young man and going walking on Sunday afternoons. Gentlemen of good moral character are asked to apply.

Hopefully yours,
MAMIE MERRILL

Being naturally of a retiring disposition, I experienced much trouble in my search for a life companion. At last I placed my affairs in your hands and with your assistance I found what my heart had longed for and now have a treasure that sticketh closer than a brother. I have developed an appreciation for small things.

Conscientiously,
ROSIE.

I am a jolly good-looking maiden of nineteen. I am an excellent conversationalist and have a loving disposition, preferring dancing to housekeeping. Have had experience with men and have learned to know and appreciate the best.

LEONA.

Lorraine occupied so much of my time and also the Dingbats that I was afraid I would have to pass thru college in single blessedness. Affairs of the heart and Lawrence men did not appeal to me. But you have wrought a marvelous change; and Charles is so nice and tall too.

Ever faithful to him,
MARJORIE WHITING.

For years I was unable to center my affections on any one. The trouble seemed to be in the quality rather than quantity. Thanks to your kind help, I have now found a mate that is perfect. I can recommend you to all my friends.

Jokingly yours,
EUGENE WRIGHT.

We want two young men who are close friends for two fine young women who have developed a similar fondness for each other. One of us is a talented young girl with a fondness for music and the finer arts. She also has a delightful southern accent. The other follows immediately after, as per usual. She is a wholesome, studious girl and would make a fine house-keeper. No one who dances or indulges in the lighter forms of amusement need apply.

Devotedly,
RUBY AND BERNICE.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE COMPANION FINDER

GREAT BARGAINS, GIRLS

THREE FOR A NICKEL—FOUR FOR A DIME

Names and Addresses Sent on Request

I am a polished young gent and heart smasher of 23 with wavy hair and a catchy little mustache. Sometimes I don't wear it tho. I am preparing for the ministry. Correspondence with a good economizer desired.

Yours debating,
BUTCH.

Words cannot do me justice. I have a good intellect and strong character. For further information send for picture and catalogue, enclosing 50 cents to cover postage. Don't miss this opportunity. The picture alone would form a valuable addition for any side show.

P. S.—I'll let you wear my Phi Beta Kappa key an hour a day.

JUSTIN.

Six feet two in my stocking feet, wavy brown hair, piercing blue eyes, aquiline nose, pearly teeth, swan-like neck, and lumberjack's physique. Besides these astounding characteristics, I have the distinction of being the most renowned heart-breaker on the Glee Club. All of the village belles fell for me and I let 'em lay. I am still looking for the right girl and if you think you can stand up side of me without being ashamed of yourself, apply at once.

I. KETCH 'EM.

My name is Paul; I make 'em fall; I am not tall; got lots of gall. You must like me, because you see, was with the Glee Boys on a spree. The girls all fell; you'll hear them tell; the small town belle, grabbed me pell mell. I'm in the ring, for anything, so if you cling, why, then just ring.

EVANS.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

Questions received one day are answered the next.

You are beginning to see light, Jim. We agree you have been toeing the mark too much. Have a good time; you are young but once. Don't study so hard. The Theta Phi average need not depend on you alone.

It would be safer; yes, Paula, room alone. You are not held responsible for what you say while asleep and Ruth may be shocked. She ought not to be tho. Ben ought to have "just one."

Yes, Ada, it is perfectly all right to go with a High School fellow if he fills the bill and especiall if he has a car. Keep the front room next year too. It saves steps for the maid and an auto horn answers the call.

We know ministers train their children to choose well their companions, but he has been carefully raised, Ruth, and we hope he will prove the Victor.

Repartie—the reply one thinks of on the way home.

Typical Minutes

TAPPA TAPPA KEGGA—

Meeting called to disorder by Pres. John Vincent. Minutes of last meeting read and burned after the description of the banquet had had the word "oyster" prefixed to make it read "oyster stew party." Roll Call. Secretary Rudy Puchner asked to call up Fen Pugh and Harry Clark at Brokaw or, better, Russell Sage to notify them of regular meeting; also to fine Helen Norton and Eulalia for absence. Letter of thanks read from Art Vincent for taking 24 seats at Ripon game. Farrand reported meeting members from other chapters while on Glee Club trip. Big Brother Markham appointed to keep eye on Farrand. Letter read from Doc Sammy questioning character of certain member because she was seen knocking on front door of August Kohl's place of business and then entering rear door. Charlotte Norton relieved situation by explaining that Dot was claiming her lost pocketbook.

HELEN CLUB—

Meeting opened with singing of first verse of "Oh! Helen!" Question brought as to whether Helmar Hagen's name makes him eligible to membership in the club. Committee appointed to decide. Meeting closed with chorus of "Oh! Helen!"

M. D. A.—

Meeting called to order at College Inn. MacHarg voluntarily undertakes to take the minutes, being within earshot. Question brought up as to whether transposition of the initials of the organization into D. A. M. is an unladylike offense. Decision rendered that it is a matter of self-defense when trying to throw some would-be joiner off the trail of the real meaning. Muriel suggests that Keevil be made an active before leaving on the Glee club tour on the grounds that the pin would mean so much to him on the trip. Meeting adjourns with presentation of a bill,—by the waitress.

Not many things are as detrimental to marks as college romances.—Classen and Murphy.

The Tale of the Tour

THE DEPARTURE—

We discover that the photographers, Harwood and Donner, in the guise of Shaefer and Eiler, are to accompany us. They begin operations immediately to accustom their cameras to our faces. Judge and Bishop are all bedecked in spring overcoats for a trip in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan. They don't know that the people in that country put out their fires on the first of March and begin sitting out on the porch.

OCONTO—

Bill Armstrong's home town. He is taken with stage fright because he says they know him so well there. After the concert, we find that some of the local Lawrence girls have arranged a party for us, but as Yaska Heifitz Case and Max Rosin Corr are not inclined to furnish the music there is no party. There happens to be a nice rainstorm, though, and Schaefer demonstrates the art of being a fish in a puddle of water in one of the poorly lighted streets of the town.

OCONTO FALLS—

John Vincent thinks that it is about time to give his suitcase an airing, so he drops it under the wheel of Florence Owen's sedan and removes the end. A few white ties and stiff collars make their exit at the same time but the boys must begin to learn the value of a good art gum eraser before the trip is over and this is a good time to start. One of our number is lost at the Delbridge home when wedding bells ring. Eiler had to take the picture so he couldn't be married.

MARINETTE—

Conrad loses his ticket on the train and a guardian is appointed for him. Conrad is very efficient and a scene shifter and we'd hate to lose him although it is slightly troublesome, seeing that he gets three meals a day and makes all of the trains. The cows along the way insist on feeding on the track and as a result the train is slowed up considerably. However, Bill Armstrong, the janitor, is sent ahead to clear off the track and better time is made. Sheeny Wright gets homesick for Edna and camouflages a cold to go home. The second basses introduce an acrobatic stunt at the concert by falling off the stage and taking a plant with them. A strong minor strain is introduced in Lass O'Mine.

ESCANABA—

Judge stays up late acting as chaperon. "Never again," is his verdict. Ketchum and Evans begin their untiring campaign as heart-smashers. McIlroy and Hilker also go fussing and both have to borrow money to pay their bill in the ice cream parlor. Billy Doll makes a good escort but the girl's mother had to call father to send him home. Bill now claims that the girl was afraid to have him go for fear he would not be able to find his way home.

NIAGARA—

Evans, Conrads and Schaefer feel the weight of Red Corr's right paddle wheel. They admit that it's the only time they were warm while up in that country. Ketchum falls in love with a bar maid and receives a paddling. Irish shows his authority as a result and demonstrates his affection for Ketchum. Or is it because? Yes, rumor has it that they are pledged to sisters in Eau Claire. Sort of brotherly love. Armstrong and Hayden are absent from church but promise faithfully to mend their ways.

It's never too late to spend—Snider's—"Open all Night."

IRON MOUNTAIN—

Judge makes his debut behind the scenes as a toe dancer. We think that he needs to do something to warm up after wearing a spring overcoat in these polar regions. We take a three o'clock train and a description of the departure would be painful. We all want to sleep on the train but Ketchum and Evans insist on recounting the number of girls that fell for them in Iron Mountain.

RHINELANDER—

We sing in a church and there certainly is a fire in the furnace. One of the wits of the club suggests that probably they keep it that hot all the time as a warning to the congregation to take out their fire insurance. Rhinelander is a fine town but the haberdashers sell stiff collars that are too high. For verification of this statement we refer you to John Vincent, Irwin Johnson, and Conrads.

TOMAHAWK—

Herb Heilig's parish. The Glee Club basketball team defeats the crack high school team due to the efficient coaching of Judge and the refereeing of a Lawrence alumnus. Ketchum makes a hit with the girls in a basketball uniform. Herman Johnson would play but he says that he'd rather play spectator with one girl than play basketball with four fellows.

LADYSMITH—

The high school swimming pool is a dandy but the afternoon swim made Evans's hair so wavy that he couldn't do a thing with it at the concert that night and didn't make the usual hit. Schaefer made a hit, however, when he let the curtain down on the front row between acts.

DURAND—

Watkins and Van Ostrand, or Van Asterman as many of his hostesses call him, are quartered at a home four miles out in the country. The folks begin to believe that they must be pretty wild because they don't get home until half past ten. Nevertheless, they call them at five o'clock for breakfast and Watty asks where the fire is.

EAU CLAIRE—

Irish and Ketchum feel quite at home although very nervous and in a great hurry to have it over with. We discovered the reason after the concert as it was a beautiful evening for a ride. Mac gets the Flu but some of the fellows think that he has met old friends or made new ones. There is a question.

WAUSAU—

Fred Boyce gets a hair cut, shave, and massage. It's funny how a home town affects different people. Freddy took Irish and two other girl friends to the Princess Ice Cream Parlor after the concert and a pleasant evening was spent in dancing and eating. Walt Eiler admits that Wausau is a pretty good town even though it did rain.

ANTIGO—

It is a case of hate-to-go from Antigo for various reasons but mostly the usual one. A dance and royal entertainers leaves pleasant memories and also many wilted stiff collars and wrinkled shirt fronts. The eraser which has served us so faithfully won't take out wrinkles but then there is only one night left.

SHAWANO—

Judge goes home. Everybody's sleepy. All of us have colds.

THE RETURN—

Delapidated but happy. Spring overcoats are comfortable once more.

Mohr gave his class the thirty-second degree yesterday; that's the freezing point, isn't it?

A genius is an ordinary man with a kink in his mind.

A man who doesn't care what people think of him would generally be very unhappy if he did.

They were serious Seniors and the lieutenants were taking them home from a reception when the most serious remarked: "I'm on for a lark; what can we do?"

Loot Workman, who was ever a daring young man, had the lay to the situation. He called a fire drill (it was cold and nearly eleven o'clock). The girls didn't like the possibility of publicity, but failed to caution the officers. Opinions on the matter were freely given.

Harold Klann to Loot Mason: "Pardon me, sir, you just gave me my uniform, but you forgot to give me a vest."

Although he gave the impression of always being right, Loot Workman made several mistakes which he did not admit to the companies. This is one of them: They were expecting an inspector and had heard vague rumors about another officer. Workman was up town when a tall officer approached him and asked his way to the Lawrence S. A. T. C. Workman saw in him the inspector and so carried his bag and several books from down street. It was after dinner when Loot Williston presented himself to the commanding officer that Workman learned that he was merely a new company officer.

Death Stops Your Salary

Salaried men should insure, for their salaries cease at death. Business, professional and working men should insure, for their brains or their muscles are their capital as well as their income. Death stops them both. Insure your life, and death can stop that income or steal your capital, but your loved ones will be saved from want.

Will this Happen When the Suffrage Amendment Goes Through?

Now Miss Gaeckler's Dean at Brokaw,
And the doors are closed at eight,
All four bolts are locked securely,
No one dreams of coming late.

The halls are filled with naught but silence,
Every light is out at nine,
Maude is waiting in the hallway,
All the boys file by in line.

First in line is blushing Harold,
(Always first, we must confess)
While the boys are crowding 'round him,
She bestows a fond caress.

After all the boys have passed her,
And are safely tucked in bed,
Wilbur slips up to her shyly,
And she pats his curly head.

"All your past sins I've forgiven,
I know you always mean the best,
So run along, now—Wilbur darling—
You deserve a good night's rest!"

Now that all the lads are sleeping,
A dark form steals into view,
Halts with awe before her window,
Aha! we see—it is Fen Pugh!

Gently now he strums his banjo,
The song—it is a pretty thing!
She wakes—she starts—she murmurs softly,
"Hark! I hear the angels sing."

"Maudie—pretty Maudie,
With your hair of curly hue—
You are Brokaw's guardian angel,
Does the job appeal to you?"

When the singer's song was finished,
And the serenade was o'er,
Maude rejoiced that she no longer
Fought in Russell Sage's war.

Did you ever stop to consider how absence makes the marks grow rounder?

“Skim milk masquerades as cream”, runs the song from famous old Pinafore.

Same way with some meats

Looks are all right, but the quality is not there. Better come here where looks are accompanied by character. Where qualities are not sacrificed in order to make an apparent sacrifice in price.

Or, Will It Be This?

*Now Prof. Lindsay's Dean of Women,
In his glory at Sage Hall,
All the bolts are on the scrap heap,
Doors are never locked at all.*

Sir Lester B.

*The clerk sits in his native town,
Writing his letters sae fine;
"Oh, where will I get a guid teacher,
To teach this school of mine?"*

*Then up and spake an eldern maid,
Sat at the clerk's right knee,
"Sir Lester B. has the best teachers,
That ever there will be."*

*The clerk has written a fair letter,
And signed it with his hand,
And sent it to Lester B.,
Who at once great things planned.*

*The first line that Sir Lester read,
A loud laugh laughed he,
The next line that Sir Lester read,
A teir blinded his ee.*

*"Oh, who is this has done this deid,
This ill deid done to me;
To ask from me in the spring of the year,
Three students sae happy and free?"*

*"Make haste, make haste, my merry maids all,
Your letters must go in the morn,"*

*"Oh, sae na sae, our master deir,
For we fear they will meet with scorn."*

*"Late, late yestreen, we saw the new moone,
Wi' the auld moone in hir arme,
And we feir, we feir, our deir master,
That we will come to harme."*

*Oh, our fair Seniors were richt loath,
To apply for a school sae soon,
But lang before the answers came,
They sang anither tune.*

*O lang may poor Florence Owen sit.
Wi' her pen there in her hand,
Before she sees the Stevens Point clerk
Come riding to this land.*

*O lang, lang may Ada sit
Wi' worry on her face sae fair,
Waiting still for her answer to come,
She will see it now nae mair.*

*Because the clerk to Lester wrote,
Not losing any time,
"Please hold Miss Bradish for me, sir,"
And Lester murmured: "Fine!"*

*And so the prophecy came true.
As the old moone sank to rest,
Albeit, that orders to hold all three,
Would have taken two men, at best.*

Does your Dad ever come back like this?

Dear Old Dad:

I take my pen in hand
To let you know
I need a ten;
I really hate to bother you,
If you are short,
A five will do;
If lacking five
Just send me one.
I study hard,
I am on the run.

Your loving daughter,
LAWRENTIA.

Dear Daughter:

You asked for ten;
I've sent you twenty,
I hope that this
Will make it plenty.
At first I thot
I could not send,
But soon my thot
I did amend.
Now cash this check
And pay up now,
And stretch it out
As you know how.

Your DAD.

LET US SERVE YOUR NEXT BANQUET

Harold Klann tries out for Lawrentian. He is assigned chapel reports for the week. They were as follows:

MONDAY.

Hymn No. 0 sung by the lady profs. Doc Sammy read something from the Big Book. Friday notices read by same prof. Faculty leaves first. Classes follow in order of rank and dignity.

TUESDAY.

Speech by outsider. I didn't understand his name. He said we were living in a new age. That's the same bunk they all hand us. He was a good speaker, though. He told a bunch of jokes I read in Life. They didn't interest Crafer, though; he read his magazine undisturbed.

WEDNESDAY.

A man with a mustash sang. The guy next to me said his name was Karl Jay. You'd better not put that in because I think it is a joke. He didn't sound like a bird. I think that little Professor Bagg must be musical, though, because the little bird on the wall seemed quite at home on his shoulder.

THURSDAY.

I forgot to go. Doris Brenner told me at the dance last night that there would be nothing doing. I wish Doc Sammy would take the advice of the Sophs and expel us all for capturing Eukalalie or that girl with the musical Hawaiian name.

FRIDAY.

Basketball chapel. Farrand showed us his new duds. I heard he got $5.00 for advertising Thiede's colthes.

SATURDAY.

I waited ten minutes, but no one came except Wagner. He had a broom in his hand. I don't know what it was for, because Doc Sammy often says the janitor should take a rest. He doesn't care to see him any more.

Harold will have another chance to try out next year.
